These strategies allow investors to stay up to date on global market trends and provide meaningful diversification.

KraneShares Zacks
New China ETF

Investment Strategy:

KFYP tracks the Zacks New China Index which takes a smart-beta approach to provide exposure to companies listed in Mainland China, Hong Kong and the United States whose primary business or businesses are important in the current Five-Year Plan of the central Chinese government. The sectors expected to benefit from the plan are evaluated and the stocks within each sector are subsequently ranked based on various investment factors, including price, cash flow, free cash flow, momentum and volatility. Based on the foregoing, the top 40 stocks are included in the fund's holdings.

KFYP features:

- An innovative strategy that offers an "all China" exposure to the "new China" economy.
- Exposure to sectors highlighted in China's Five Year Plan (FYP) such as technology, consumer staples, consumer discretionary, and health care. Less emphasis on manufacturing, financials, industrials and heavy materials that defined China's past economic plans.
- Exposure to large cap, mid cap, and small cap Chinese companies trading in Mainland China, Hong Kong and the United States.
- Smart beta investment strategy focused on sectors/industries highlighted in the FYP.

*Formerly the KraneShares CSI New China ETF

Smart beta is an investment style where a manager passively follows an index designed to take advantage of perceived systematic biases or inefficiencies in the market.

Many popular China indexes do not include China's Mainland A share equity market

Popular indexes, such as the MSCI China Index and the FTSE China 50 Index, define the investment universe for many emerging market funds. Their definition of China includes companies listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and recently Chinese companies that list in the United States, but does not include Mainland A-shares listed on the Shanghai and Shenzhen stock exchanges. The KraneShares Zacks New China ETF (KFYP) includes Mainland A shares.

Mainland China A-share equities exhibit low correlation to other global markets

As Emerging Markets (EM) have become more correlated with Developed Markets over the years, the diversification benefits of EM investing have largely diminished

- Frontier Markets, countries whose stocks are less mature than those in EM, still have relatively low correlations with the rest of the world
- Remarkably, China A-shares exhibit an even lower correlation to the MSCI All Country World Index than Frontier Markets

China's 13th Five Year Plan provides investors with China's business plan for its next phase of economic development

The Chinese government has outlined five key tenets that will drive all aspects of China's society. These tenets also reveal the economic sectors that the Chinese government has targeted for growth.

Five Year Plan Tenets:

Inclusivity

Innovation

Coordination

Green

Openness

Xi Jinping – 习近平

President of the People's Republic of China

Five Tenets of the 13th Five Year Plan

Inclusivity

Secure a strong middle class base by building up existing social services

Innovation

Shift China's economic structure into a higher-tech focus as a primary driver of growth

Coordination

Ensure equal development across both urban and rural areas

Green

Protect the environment and pursue environmentally friendly means of growth

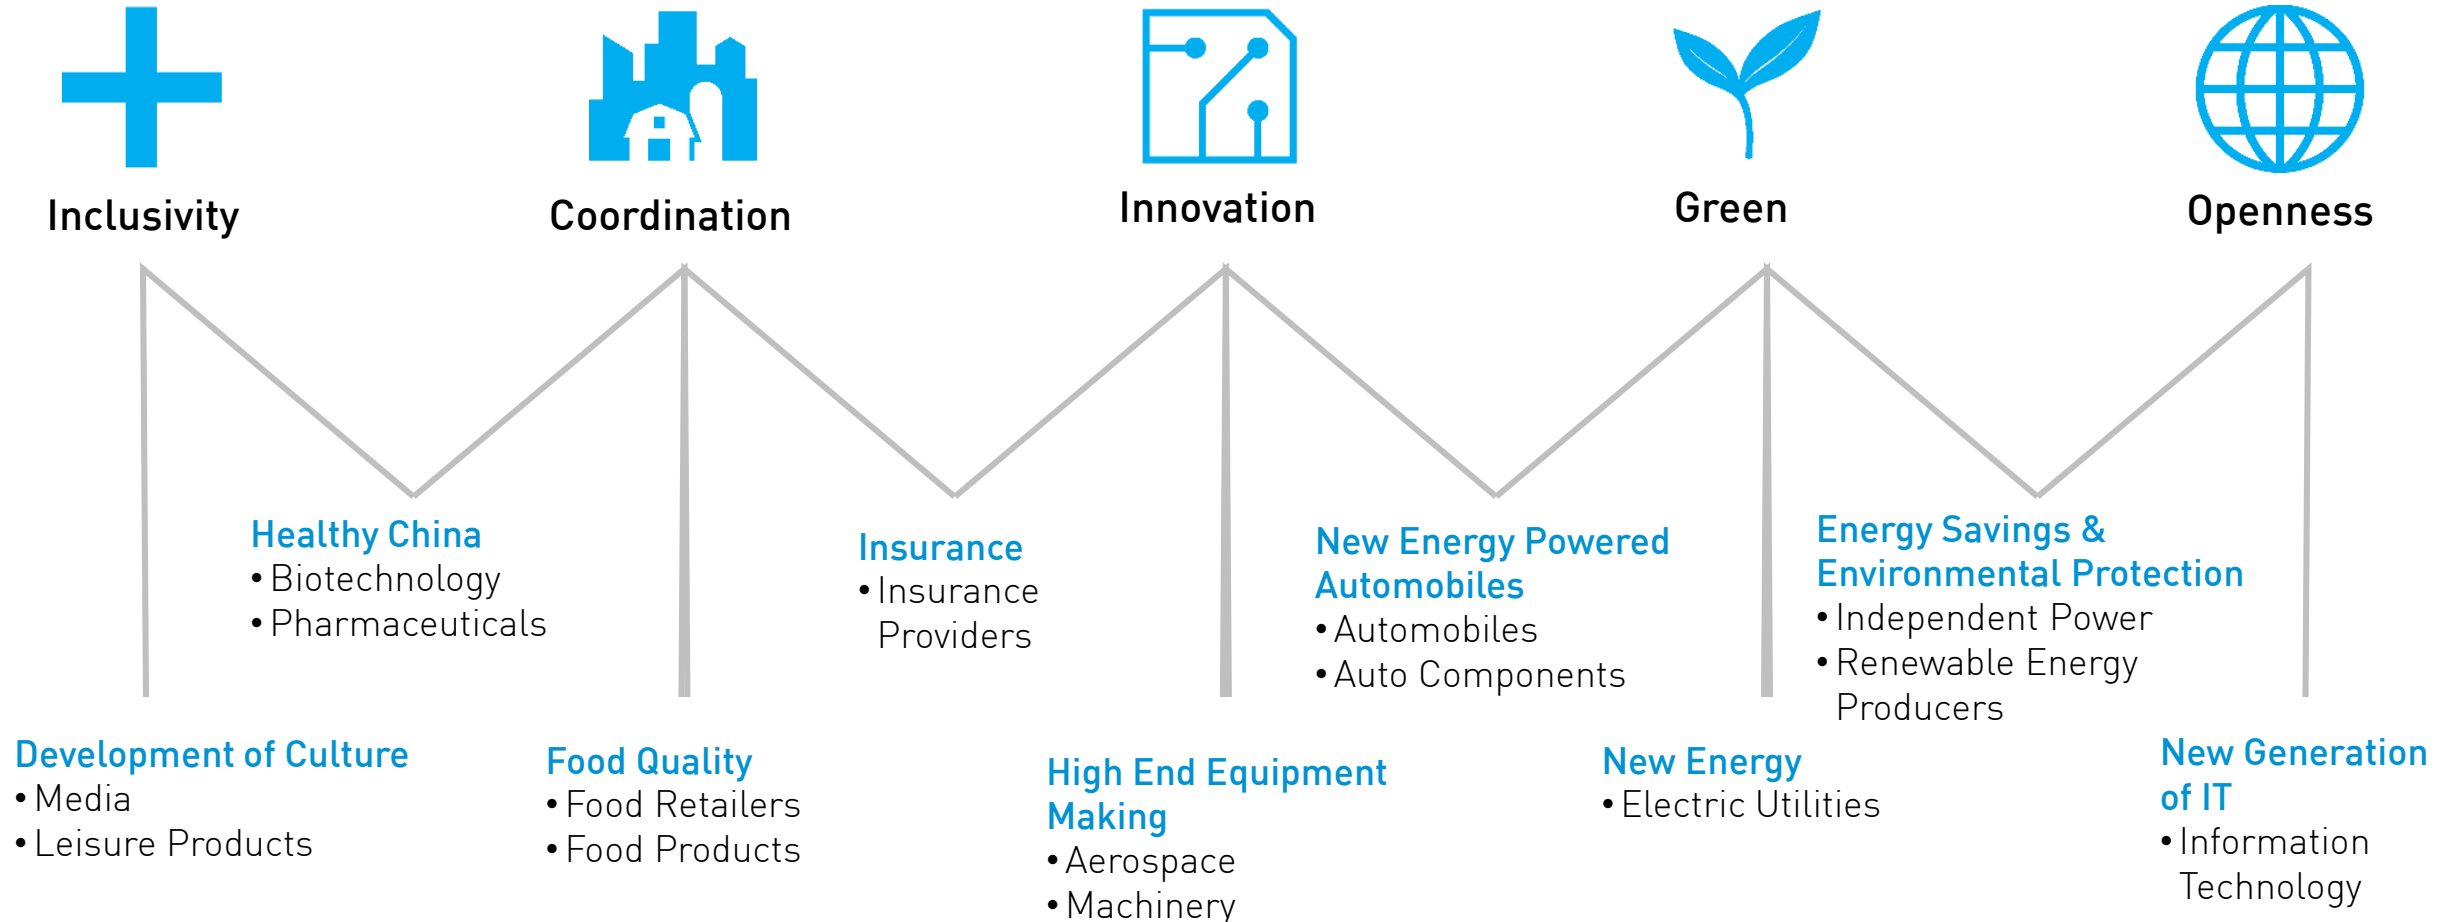

Openness

Utilize both domestic and global markets to take a more active role in global governance

The main tenets of China's 13th Five Year Plan can be subdivided into social & economic policy areas of focus

We believe these areas of focus may benefit as a direct result of the Chinese government's policies.

KraneShares partnered with Zacks Index Services to provide investors with exposure to tradable companies within the 13th Five Year Plan's focus areas

We organized the focus areas into investable sectors and provided examples of KFYP holdings within these sectors.

The S&P 500 and MSCI Emerging Markets Indexes were chosen to represent the U.S. and broader emerging markets respectively because they are considered to be the industry standard bearers for representing these markets. The S&P China BMI, MSCI China and FTSE China 50 indexes were chosen because they are popular measures of the broad Chinese market.

Important Notes

Carefully consider the Funds' investment objectives, risk factors, charges and expenses before investing. This and additional information can be found in the Funds' full and summary prospectus, which may be obtained by visiting www.kraneshares.com. Read the prospectus carefully before investing.

ETF shares are not redeemable with the issuing fund other than in large Creation Unit aggregations. Instead, investors must buy or sell ETF Shares in the secondary market with the assistance of a stockbroker. In doing so, the investor may incur brokerage commissions and may pay more than net asset value (NAV) when buying and receive less than net asset value when selling. The NAV of the Fund's shares is calculated each day the national securities exchanges are open for trading as of the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE"), normally 4:00 P.M. Eastern time (the "NAV Calculation Time"). Shares are bought and sold at market price not NAV. Closing price returns are based on the midpoint of the bid/ask spread at 4:00 P.M. Eastern Time (when NAV is normally determined).

Narrowly focused investments typically exhibit higher volatility. Technology companies may be subject to severe competition and rapid obsolescence. The Fund is non-diversified.

Investing involves risk, including possible loss of principal. There can be no assurance that a Fund will achieve its stated objectives. The Funds are subject to political, social or economic instability within China which may cause decline in value. Fluctuations in currency of foreign countries may have an adverse effect to domestic currency values. Emerging markets involve heightened risk related to the same factors as well as increase volatility and lower trading volume.
